

We know your clients are asking questions about coverage for the Coronavirus and we're here to help.

New Hospital professional liability endorsement

Ironshore has added Coronavirus expense reimbursement coverage to its suite of event-specific, drop-down coverages available on its Hospital Professional Liability (HPL) policies. Coverage responds to Centers for Disease Control confirmed "Coronavirus Events" and will provide reimbursement for eligible expenses resulting from the purchase of specialized equipment, disinfection, notification to potentially affected persons, and public relations.

Workers compensation and property coverage

Liberty Mutual Insurance also offers healthcare providers coverage designed to manage the risk of infectious diseases like Coronavirus. Healthcare Excess Workers Compensation policies may include a communicable disease event aggregate and a crisis management expense reimbursement cover. Compensability under workers compensation is determined by each state. On property policies, we also offer healthcare providers infectious disease business interruption coverage and cleanup expense. Refer to your policy for coverage terms.

The situation is evolving, and we refer all customers to the Centers for Disease Control for up-to-date information on the Coronavirus. If your clients believe they have been exposed to the Coronavirus, please encourage them to notify all of their insurance carriers as soon as practical.
