FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

IRONSHORE ENVIRONMENTAL APPOINTS CHIEF CLAIMS OFFICER

Hamilton, Bermuda, April 5, 2017 – Ironshore Environmental has promoted Thomas Duggan to the position of Chief Claims Officer overseeing specialty market claims management and processes throughout its global platform. He will be located in Ironshore’s New York office, reporting to Mike Mitrovic, President of Global Claims.

Prior to his appointment, Mr. Duggan was the unit’s Claims Director. Mr. Duggan’s past experience includes almost a decade with Zurich American Insurance Companies where he served in multiple capacities including Team Manager for Environmental Claims, Claims Counsel, and Site Pollution Underwriter. Previously, he was a Claims Analyst for the Environmental and Financial Institutions sectors, respectively, with AIG. Mr. Duggan launched his legal career as an Assistant District Attorney in the Kings County District Attorney’s office upon receiving his JD degree from St. John’s University School of Law.

“Tom has become an integral part of the Environmental claims team and is intimately knowledgeable of the risk management and claims patterns of insureds within this specialist sector of the global insurance industry. Tom’s appointment reflects our confidence in his professional abilities to continue to be responsive and forward-thinking in helping environmental parties address risk exposure and resolve claims in a timely, efficient manner,” stated John O’Brien, Chief Executive Officer, Ironshore Environmental.
